Authentic Service-Learning Defined

Service-Learning at NWTC:

• Is integrated into and enhances the curriculum providing an opportunity for students to apply skills learned in their courses, programs, or certificates.

• Is a method of teaching and learning.

• Requires student reflection.

• Connects learning and assessment to the real world.

• Fosters civic responsibility.

• Addresses a community issue and/or enhances community development.

• Is mutually beneficial to the learner and the community.
Over the course of the 2011-2012 academic year, NWTC students from every academic department participated in 456 authentic Service-Learning projects and 64 co-curricular service projects. These opportunities allowed them to apply their knowledge and skills to positively impact community members. Some of the Service-Learning projects were one-time opportunities, while others recur year after year.

BUSINESS and INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

WORLD WAR II STORIES DVD PROJECT

After seeing a World War II Stories documentary on Wisconsin Public Television, an NWTC staff member was inspired to create a set of World War II stories from students, staff/faculty, or friends of NWTC. Ninety students from four programs created the NWTC World War II Stories DVD to commemorate and celebrate World War II veterans and their families. All proceeds from the sale of this DVD went into a scholarship fund for student veterans.

- Sixteen students from the Digital Media Technology program used audio and video recording equipment to gather stories from NWTC students, staff, and faculty about the experiences of their families and friends during World War II.
- Forty-seven students from the Digital Photography program completed two phases of the project. One group of students from a Photography-Digital Advanced course set up lighting and displays to photograph items for the DVD, while another group of students from a Photography-Digital course scanned and edited each of the photos for use in the DVD slideshow.
- Fifteen students from the Design and Graphic Technology program created a variety of covers for the World War II Storied DVD using images taken by the Digital Photography students.
- Twelve students from the Print Technology program printed the DVD covers for the World War II Stories DVD.

Service-learning is a particularly fertile way of involving young people in community service, because it ties helping others to what they are learning in the classroom. It enables them to apply academic disciplines to practical, everyday problems. In the process, it provides a compelling answer to the adolescent’s perennial question, ‘Why do I need to learn this stuff?’

GLOBAL YOUTH SERVICE DAY 2012

Internationally, Global Youth Service Day 2012 mobilized millions of kids and young adults in more than 105 countries on six continents over the course of three days completing more than 4,400 projects.

NWTC staff and students participated in this global initiative by completing the following projects:

- Brightening lives. NWTC staff and students buoyed the spirits of Allouez Parkside Village assisted living facility residents. One group of NWTC staff and students worked together to glaze flower pots created by NWTC Artisan and Business Center students. Another group of staff members planted flowers in the glazed flower pots, which were then donated to the Allouez Parkside Village residents.

- Brightening facilities. NWTC staff and students cleaned up areas of the Green Bay campus by picking up trash and cigarette butts.

In addition, a work-study student from NWTC and an AmeriCorps Member serving NWTC participated on a community-wide planning committee that worked locally to engage more than 600 youth and young adults in more than 25 projects over the course of 2,400+ hours of service. This project was a true collaboration involving the Richard Mauthe Center for Faith, Spirituality, and Social Justice (the Lead Agency for Northeast Wisconsin) and the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction, Green Bay YMCA; members from the Volunteer Center of Brown County; and staff and students from the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay and St. Norbert College.
